PUBLISHED BY

R. L. POLK & CO.,

BUTTERFIELD BUILDING, DETROIT, MICH.

1887.

Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1887, by R. L. POLK & Co, in the Office of the Librarian of Congress, at Washington, D C.

INTRODUCTORY.

More than ordinary care has been taken and much additional expense incurred by the publishers in order to make a more complete and satisfactory Directory of the Saginaws. The information taken on the original canvass has been verified and revised to date of going to press, and the printing and binding is the work of Saginaw artisans, having been executed by the Courier job rooms and bindery. We feel quite confident that an inspection of the work will result in a general approval of our efforts to improve and perfect the Directory.

The work contains about 18000 names divided between the two cities in ratio of two-thirds in East Saginaw and one-third in Saginaw, and shows an increase of nearly 1500 names over the last edition. Different directory publishers in various cities multiply the number of names in the directory by 3 or $3\frac{1}{2}$ to form an estimate of population, and we leave our citizens to claim such population for the twin cities of the Valley as the facts will warrant, and will only remark that the notable increase of names justifies the claim of a healthy addition to the enumeration during the year.

The prejudice of either city against occupying the back portion of the book is overcome by the unique arrangement of this volume which places both cities in front, and the same arrangement has many other advantages, chief of which is that it obviates the error, frequently committed by those who refer to such works, of turning too far back in the book and looking for the name desired in the wrong city.

EAST SAGINAW.

The Publishers are indebted to the Sixth Annual Saginaw Board of Trade Report for the matter contained in this sketch.

Is located on the east bank of the Saginaw river, a stream navigable for the largest lake craft, sixteen miles from Saginaw Bay, covers an area of 3904 82-100 acres, and has a population of 33,000. Opposite East Saginaw, and in every respect identical in all material interests, are the City of Saginaw and the village of Carrollton, these points being connected with street and steam lines of railway, and six bridge structures spanning the river. East Saginaw has a frontage on the Saginaw river of over four miles, with extensive docks and varied manufactures of a permanent character.

In 1850 the land upon which East Saginaw is built was an almost unbroken wilderness, which had scarcely been profaned by the axe of civilization. In that year the future metropolis was platted and the work of clearing commenced. The incorporation of East Saginaw as a village took place in 1855, and in 1859 it received a city charter. The population in 1860 was 3,001; in 1870 it was 11,350; in 1880 it reached 19,066, and since that date its growth has been rapid and substantial.

The city has three lines of Street Railway traversing its principal thoroughfares, all well equipped, and a new steel and iron bridge crossing at the foot of Genesee avenue, was erected last year.

The lines of railroad centering in East Saginaw are the Detroit, Saginaw & Bay City, and Saginaw & Mackinaw Divisions of the Michigan Central, the Flint & Pere Marquette, the Saginaw & St. Louis Division of the Detroit, Lansing & Northern, the Saginaw, Tuscola & Huron, and the Port Huron & Northwestern. The Detroit & Alpena Road also connects the city with Lake Huron shore towns. One or two projects for new roads to reach the city are being pushed, notably the Chicago, Hastings & Saginaw, the consummation of which is but a question of time. The extension of the Toledo, Saginaw & Muskegon from a point near Durand to this city is also projected. The Saginaw, Tuscola & Huron was extended from its terminus at Bay Port on Saginaw Bay to Bad Axe, the county town of Huron county, last year, and furnishes communication with a fertile and rapidly developing territory that is already vastly benefiting the city.

The city is also the headquarters of the Flint & Pere Marquette Railroad, its general offices and shops being located here. The depot building of this road is one of the finest in the west.

By water the city is connected with all points on the great unsalted seas. A line of steamers make daily trips during the season of navigation to Alpena and intermediate points, and there is weekly steam service between the city and Port Huron, Goderich, Ont., Detroit and Cleveland. The Saginaw River Steamboat line performs daily service betweeen all points on the river.

The assessed valuation of real and personal property of the city during a series of years makes the following exhibit:

1879	$7,539,000
1880	7,526,600
1881	7,691,655
1882	8,045,290
1883	8,401,590
1884	8,770,507
1885	8,956,628
1886	9,196,145

The municipal affairs of East Saginaw have been conducted with that spirit of broad liberality in public improvements that characterize the people, and at the same time with due regard for economy. The credit of the city is first-class, its bonds commanding a premium in the markets, and its obligations are promptly and faithfully met.

As a place of residence East Saginaw is superior to many leading cities of the country. It embraces all the advantages of modern civilization, its people are prosperous and progressive, with social tendencies and qualities that bind them together in one common family, one aim, the interest of the city, being that of all. The system of sewerage, prepared by competent engineers, and laid down at great expense, is extensive and complete. It includes very nearly 30 miles of piping of different dimensions, and underlies the city at all principal and outlaying populated districts. Many thousands of dollars are annually spent in extending and improving the system

The supply of water for fire extinguishing and ordinary purposes is fully adequate to the demands of the city. Mains and auxiliaries are laid throughout the city a distance of nearly forty miles. The Holly works are supplied with double engines of great power, marvels of mechanism and skill, and capable of furnishing a supply equal to the demand for many years to come.

The electric light was introduced some years ago, an extensive plant being established and maintained for the purpose of lighting the city and supplying stores. The incandescent system has been added during the present year and is growing in popular favor. The East Saginaw Gas Light Company also has a plant valued at $150,000, the consumption of gas being very large and increasing each year.

The Western Union and United Lines telegraph companies have offices in this city and transmit messages to all quarters of the globe, day or night, at reasonable rates. The Michigan Telephone Company has an exchange here, with several hundred subscribers and connection to all points in Michigan.

The American District Telegraph Conpany was organized this year with a capital of $10,000. There is also a fire alarm telegraph, with wires stretched to all parts of the city, and boxes, conveniently arranged, in each ward.

Contracts have recently been awarded for the erection of the Hoyt library, $100,000, to endow and maintain which were bequeathed by the late Jesse Hoyt. This building, it is expected, will be finished and opened next year. There is a public library maintained by the city, which is supplied with 7.122 volumes and 1,000 pamphlets and has an annual circulation of 20,000 volumes. The Germania society also maintains a library of 2,000 volumes for the benefit of its members and friends.

In the matter of charities and benevolent institutions, East Saginaw leads many cities of greater size and larger population. The Association of Charities, composed of prominent ladies and gentlemen, is doing noble work and in addition the Home for the Friendless and St. Vincent's Orphan's Home, supported wholly by voluntary contributions, furnish comfortable homes for friendless and orphan children and aged and destitute women. St. Mary's Hospital, established in 1874, is conducted under the auspices of Sisters of Charity and presided over by a a staff of physicians and surgeons, who tender their services gratuitously, from among the ablest and most experienced in the profession. There are upwards of 40 secret and benevolent societies in the city, all orders in the United States being well represented. The city is well supplied with religious advantages, there being 21 distinct societies having a property valuation of about $350,000.

The public schools number 14 and the value of the school property is about a quarter of a million of dollars. The average attendance during the past year was 3541 of a total enrollment of 4132. There are also a number of flourishing private schools in the city

The financial interests of East Saginaw are laid on a solid foundation. There are four National banks, one private banking institution and two savings banks. The total deposits of the city banks, according to recent sworn statements, were $2,309.470.41, and the loans and discounts $2,736,899.52, a most encouraging and gratifying exhibit, and indicating the amount of business transacted in the channel referred to.

A number of manufacturing interests have been established in which skilled labor may find employment. The latest enterprises in this direction are two furniture factories, for one of which a bonus of $15,000 was subscribed by citizens, which give employment to several hundred men.

INTRODUCTORY.

In presenting this edition of the Saginaw Directory the Publishers desire to congratulate the citizens on the many improvements noticeable in the city, and particularly on the numbering of the houses, which is a great convenience to the publishers as well as the patrons of this work. We have endeavored to overcome the prejudice of either of the twin cities against occupying the back portion of the book by the unique arrangement of this volume, which places either city in front and obviates the error frequently committed by those who refer to the Directory, of turning too far back and looking for the desired name in the wrong city.

We trust that the present edition of the Directory will be found reasonably perfect in detail, as we have spared no expense in revising the information to date of publication.

SAGINAW CITY.

The oldest and perhaps most beautifully located city in the Saginaw Valley, and the county seat of Saginaw County, is located on the west bank of Saginaw river, 18 miles from Saginaw Bay. It embraces within its corporate limits an area of about eight square miles, and is the oldest town on the river, having been established as a government post in 1819. The city is substantially built and has paved streets, handsome and substantial business blocks, elegant private residences, large lumber and salt manufacturing industries and numerous small manufactories, excellent church and educational facilities and a population of 16,000. It has the same benefits of water communication as the other river cities, being at the head of navigation. In 1850 it contained but six wholesale and retail stores, one saw mill, three hotels, three blacksmith shops, five carpenter shops, three boot and shoe shops, and two or three other retail establishments and 536 population. Since that date it has steadily advanced. The capital of the city increased during the three years succeding 1860 one-hundred fold, its population doubled, brick stores, large manufacturing establishments and elegant buildings were erected. In 1867 the population had increased to 5,426, and in 1885 exceeded 14,000. It is connected with East Saginaw by two railroad and three other bridges, and the Saginaw street railway line. The Michigan Central, Saginaw Valley & St. Louis and Flint & Pere Marquette railroads afford ample rail facilities, while its shipping facilities connect it with all ports on the great chain of lakes. The city has a court house, erected in 1885 at a cost of $100,000, a fine opera house —the Teutonia, Armory hall, Arbeiter hall and other public halls. It is supplied with the Holly system of water works, and has an efficient fire department. The Western Union and United Lines telegraph companies connect the city with all parts of the country by wire, and it has a telephone exchange, operated by the Bell Telephone Company, connecting with all the principal cities and towns in the state. The city is well supplied with gas for all purposes, and the Jenny electric light plant is now in operation.

The assessed valuation of property, real and personal, for a series of years is as follows:

1886.		1882.
Real	$3,755,100	Real	$3,382,630
Personal	1,156,400	Personal	1,022,000

Personal	1,104,600	Personal	940,100

1884.		1880.
Real	$3,664,680	Real	$3,281,200
Personal	1,068,200	Personal	912,850
Total	$4,732,880	Total	$4,194,050
1883.
Real	$3,507,620
Personal	1,037,200
Total	$4,544,820

The financial affairs of the city are well managed and its credit first class.

The city has no hall or city office buildings of its own. The aggregate value of its public property, including school houses, parks, bridge and water works building is $250,000. The county public property located here is worth $200,000, including the Court House completed and erected by the city for the use of the county.

The city has two National banks and one private banking house, and a new savings bank has recently been organized and is now doing business. The National banks have a capital stock of $300,000 and the aggregate loans and discounts exceed $1,000,000; the deposits amounting to over $800,000. The public schools are a source of pride to the people. There are eight buildings capable of accommodating over 3,000 pupils and representing an investment of many thousands of dollars.

The High School is recognized by the faculty of the State University as a preparatory department of that institution, and students graduating from it are admitted to classes in the University without re-examination at Ann Arbor. The school library, consisting of over 5,000 volumes, well selected, is kept in the Central building, and students are guided and encouraged in suitable courses of reading, while, in rooms of higher grades, all needed books of reference are supplied. St. Andrews's Academy and Educational Institution of St. Andrew's Catholic parish is in charge of the Sisters of Providence. All the English branches are taught and in addition instructions are given in music, painting, all kinds of fancy needle work and German and French, when desired. The graduates of the Academy are well fitted to fill an honorable and useful place in society. Private schools are also connected with the Lutheran and St. Paul (German) church schools, and a Kindergarten under the auspices of the Teutonia society.

The religious element is supplied with nine denominational structures, representing an investment of $225,000. St John's Episcopal society erected in 1884 a fine brick church at an expense of $30,000. A new brick Presbyterian edifice costing $42,000 was dedicated during 1885, and the M. E. society erected a fine church building, which was dedicated in January, 1886.

There are a large number of benevolent and civic societies, all of which are in a flourishing condition.

The office of the Tittabawassee Boom Company is located here, and the city derives great benefits therefrom. The company raft and deliver from 325,000,000 to 650,000,000 feet of logs every season, the output the past year being in round numbers 403,000,000 feet. About 500 men are employed, who receive in wages an aggregate of $100,000.

In small manufacturing establishments the city is well represented, and unsurpassed inducements are extended to every legitimate enterprise. The future is full of promise, and its industrious and thrifty people are awake and abreast of the times.
